

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides for an apparatus and a method for performing adaptive frame tracking. The present invention comprises an adaptive frame tracking unit capable of receiving and sending at least one data packet and automatically adjusting a data rate of the data packet by determining if there exists at least one data frame error and correcting for the data frame error in response to a determination that there exists at least one the data frame error.

09375120 081699
669T80 02154E60